Community Art Therapy & Therapeutic Art Groups

Art Therapy Studio is dedicated to fostering self-discovery, resilience, and emotional well-being through art therapy and therapeutic art. Our 10-week community group programs, offered seasonally four times a year, provide a welcoming space for creativity to flourish under the guidance of credentialed art therapists and trained expressive art specialists. These sessions are open to individuals 18 and older and are priced at $175 per group, no referral needed.

Since 1967, we have been a pioneer in creative healing, offering innovative art therapy programs to the Greater Cleveland area. Whether you're an art beginner or an experienced artist, our programs are designed to support your journey of self-expression. We provide art materials and offer income-based financial assistance to make our programs accessible to everyone, regardless of financial, physical, emotional, or cognitive challenges.

What is the Difference Between Art Therapy and Therapeutic Art?

Art Class (You won't Get this With Us)	Art Therapy (This is What We Do!)	Therapeutic Art (We Do This Too!)
Art instructor – may have fine arts training	Art therapist – master's degree in art therapy	Expressive Art Specialist - bachelor's degree in art therapy
Student/teacher relationship	Therapeutic relationship	Supportive relationship
Classroom environment	Confidential space	Location varies
Focuses on technique and the finished product	Focuses on the process and self-expression	Focuses on exploration and relaxation
Art techniques are taught	Targeted art tasks but no "wrong" way to make art	Experimentation is encouraged
No focus on emotional process	Emotional process and its exploration are central	Awareness of feelings but not explored in depth
